Welcome

We welcome you to the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John’s University community and look forward to sharing in your sons’ and daughters’ experiences of discovering the treasures our campuses have to offer. The next four years will be filled with opportunities to learn and grow in ways she or he had not considered, and to have experiences that will be transformative in ways that will impact the rest of her or his life.

Your continued support, encouragement and sacrifice will be invaluable for your child's academic, social, personal and professional success. There will be struggles and successes, misunderstandings and enlightenment, and doubt and certitude. Our humble request of you is this: remind your son or daughter of her or his ability to succeed and overcome; to achieve and shine; to problem-solve and grow; and most importantly remind him or her of your belief in him or her to become the man and woman who has already and will continue to change our world for the better.

The purpose of this Parent Handbook is to provide meaningful and helpful information specifically for you. College life is exciting but can be confusing and stressful. Your role in your child's life will remain very important in the coming years, so we encourage you to keep this handbook throughout your child's time at CSB/SJU. We thank you for entrusting us with your son or daughter's education and hope you will join us on the journey to creating a positively memorable experience that culminates with graduation of new Bennies and Johnnies in four years, and you being proud parents of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John’s University's graduates.

Intercultural & International Student Services

Intercultural & International Student Services (IISS) is an important resource for all international students. There currently are approximately 140 international students at CSB/SJU from 18 countries around the world.

Our Mission
Intercultural and International Student Services (IISS) helps international students achieve their educational goals by providing the services and resources necessary for a successful transition to, and retention in, our Catholic Benedictine university community.

IISS also provides opportunities to enhance intercultural competencies within the CSB|SJU and local communities.

Our Goals
- Facilitate orientation programs to help international students adjust to life on campus and in the U.S.A. in general.
- Help provide international students with the best possible academic, social, and personal experience at CSB|SJU.
- Help students solve all types of problems, from minor requests for information to major personal concerns.
- Serve as a primary link between international students and various campus departments, federal government and public and private agencies.
- Enhance cross cultural understanding on campus and facilitate interactions among the students, CSB|SJU, and local communities.

Academics
By design, our class sizes are small and this leads to rich interaction between the students and faculty, as well as opportunities for leadership and individual growth. There are many support systems in place to serve all of our international students. These services include academic support, a Writing Center, a Math Center, tutoring, English as a Second Language (ESL) Instruction, and an international Academic Advisor.

Academic Advising
The mission of the Office of Academic Advising is to assist students in the development of meaningful educational plans that are consistent with their academic, personal and professional goals through direct service to the student and collaboration with faculty and other campus resources. All international students will have two academic advisors in the first year—the student’s First Year Seminar instructor and Lisa Scott, the Academic Advisor for all international students.

Banking in the U.S.A.

Your son or daughter should consider opening a U.S.A. bank account as soon as possible. They can use this account to deposit funds, receive wire transfers, make cash withdrawals, pay bills, and electronically receive their paycheck if they are working on campus. He/She has already received information about banking with Sentry Bank and will have the opportunity to open an account during International Student Orientation. If they have questions, encourage them to speak with the Intercultural & International Student Services staff.

How to Prevent Fraud

Identity theft and fraud are becoming a growing concern. Remind your son or daughter to protect their privacy and refrain from sharing personal information unless necessary. Each year, international students become victims of various types of internet fraud. Here is some important information to share with him or her:

- Never share bank account numbers, Personal Identification Numbers (PIN), his/her Social Security Number, or Check Card information with anyone who does not need to know.
- Review monthly statements or check online periodically to make sure transactions are correct.
- Notify the bank immediately if information gets lost or stolen.
- Watch out for fraud schemes, like emails/texts/calls from a bank wanting personal information or money, job offers and people wanting to send money orders in return for cash.
- Your student will never receive a call from the U.S.A. government (Border Patrol, Immigration Services, IRS, etc). Anyone that calls and claims there is an issue with the student’s immigration status is a fraud. Students should never give out any personal credit card number/information or the Social Security Number to such callers.
Health Insurance

It is campus policy that all students carry health insurance while enrolled at CSB/SJU. This health insurance requirement can be met by one of the following:

1. Coverage carried under your son or daughter’s personal or family insurance plan. Check the policy to determine if your son or daughter is covered while at college in the United States of America. There is a minimum requirement of $50,000 medical coverage for students, and a $90,000 minimum requirement if your student participates in varsity sports. If your son or daughter is covered please have them fill out the “insurance waiver” form in the Forms Portal or through the CSB/SJU Business Office.

2. Enrolling in the insurance plan available to CSB/SJU students through Student Assurance Services, Inc. This is the plan obtained by CSB/SJU for its own use. The college makes no representations or warranties as to the appropriateness or sufficiency of this plan. A personal evaluation of its coverage should be made by you and your son or daughter. Billing for this insurance will automatically be placed upon your son or daughter’s student account.

All International Students will be enrolled in and billed for the Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Plan from Student Assurance Services (SAS) unless the student carries comparable insurance and submits the waiver via the Forms Portal by the deadline date (August 10, 2018). International Students who do not complete the Verification of Health Insurance in the Forms Portal by the deadline will be billed the full amount of the annual SAS premium.

Cultural Adjustment

Your son or daughter will be dealing with a lot of cultural adjustment over the next year, known as "culture shock". Here in the United States the food might not be the same, the smells might be different, people might look, act, and speak differently.

Tips to Assist Your Son or Daughter Adjust:

• Take care of yourself! This is a period of adjustment for you too! It’s a good time to refocus on your own hobbies and interests. But remember—your son/daughter still needs you and loves you.
• Establish regular (weekly?) check-ins. Check-ins can provide clues about your son/daughter’s adjustment to college life, their mental and physical health, and how they are handling academic demands.
• Encourage him/her to make connections on campus (friends, professors, campus resources) and get involved (student groups). These are the keys to overcoming homesickness.
• Remind your student of your family values and priorities. Remind them why they are in college.
• In the first few weeks, first-year students are vulnerable to pressure to “fit in” and they may perceive this to mean drinking alcohol. Discuss the consequences of making poor choices when it comes to alcohol (i.e. academic trouble, increased risk of sexual assault and violence, trouble with the law and F-1 visa status, and even death). Ask about his/her attendance at on-campus events.
• Celebrate good decisions and accomplishments they have made since starting college.
• If your student gets sick, refer them to the health center. Always encourage a healthy lifestyle (including sleep, diet, exercise and relaxation). These healthy habits help reduce stress and prevent illness.
• If your student is facing setbacks or challenges, listen and then express your confidence that they can solve the problem. Encourage them to utilize campus resources for help (advisors, IISS staff, mentor, counseling, Resident Advisors, etc.). Don’t try to solve your student’s problems for them. Students need to make mistakes and more importantly, learn from the mistakes. Your job is to coach, encourage and support them.

• Encourage your student to keep up with coursework. Many students find that falling behind early in the term is a major cause of stress and failures later on in the term. Parental reactions to grades can influence a student’s stress level. Avoid strong reactions and realize that whether the grades were good or bad, your student will have a better understanding of what college work requires.

• Care packages are a great way to show your student how much you love them. Possible contents can include: food from home, money, photos from home, letters from family, warm socks/slippers, gift certificates for restaurants and stores in Central Minnesota. Care packages are always appreciated but especially when received during particularly stressful times (i.e. finals week). Another great time to send a care package is around February 14th (Valentine’s Day) – an American holiday about expressing your love.

• Prepare for your student’s first visit home after starting college. They had independence (ate what they wanted, wore what they wanted, did what they wanted). They may walk through the door a totally different person than who they were when they walked out. You’ll likely encounter some challenges when they are back home. And you’ve changed too! You’ve adjusted to their absence. Both parents and students need to be patient, aware, understanding and supportive of each other’s needs. Recognize that your student may be going through many changes now but in the long run, the core values that you instilled will probably remain.
Communicating with your Son or Daughter

Each floor of the residential buildings at CSB/SJU is equipped with a telephones which can be used by students to make and receive calls. Each dorm room on campus has both cable and wireless (Wi-Fi) internet access. You may find communication with your son or daughter via WhatsApp, FaceTime, e-mail or Skype is very convenient.

Visits

While you may not be able to visit every weekend, some parents of international students do visit during breaks or graduation. You can fly into the Minneapolis/St. Paul International Airport (MSP) located approximately 1.5 hours from CSB/SJU.

There are several options for transportation to CSB/SJU once you arrive at the airport. When flying to MSP you can use shuttle services for transportation to and from CSB/SJU. Shuttle services can be reserved in advance via the Internet or over the phone. You also have the option of renting a car from car rental companies in MSP and St. Cloud.

U.S.A. Immigration Information

Most international students possess an F-1 student visa which allows them to study in the U.S.A. As an F-1 student, your son or daughter is responsible for maintaining their immigration status at all times. This requirement entails the following:

- They must register for a full load of courses every semester. This means registering for a minimum of 12 credits. If for any reason they feel they cannot register for a full 12 credits, they will need to contact the Intercultural and International Student Services Office to discuss their situation.
- They must make normal progress toward completing their degree by completing their studies by or before the expected graduation date on their I-20.
- They must not work off-campus without authorization from the Intercultural & International Student Services Office.
- They must report changes of address within 10 days to Intercultural and International Student Services.
- They must contact the Intercultural and International Student Services Office if they plan on changing schools in the middle of their program.
- They must be aware of the expiration dates for their immigration documents (passport, I-20, F-1 visa) and renew in a timely manner.
- They must contact the Intercultural and International Student Services Office if they change their major.
- They must keep their passport valid at all times.
- All F-1 students must file tax forms with the Internal Revenue Service each year. Forms are due by April 15 each calendar year.

If your son or daughter does not follow these rules, they will be considered “out of status” meaning they are in violation of their immigration status in the U.S.A. Failing to maintain their status could result in serious consequences and may affect their ability to remain in or return to the United States of America. Encourage your son or daughter to ask questions if they do not understand.
Overview of the American Tax System

Americans and others residing within this country must pay taxes to the state and federal government, and the process is completed through an agency called the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Usually when someone earns money a portion of it is automatically deducted and sent directly to the government. Organizations that pay individuals send a summary of how much money they paid you every January or so, as well as how much of that was sent to the government. The purpose of filing a tax return is to report all sources of income to the government, what was already paid, and the amount owed. It is also an opportunity to claim deductions or exemptions. At the end of the process, you calculate how much in total you should have paid. If you paid more than what you owe during the year, you get a refund. On the other hand, if you didn’t pay enough, you have to pay the difference.

Every international student is required to file a tax return as a condition of their visa. Even if your son or daughter doesn’t work, he/she has to file a tax return. Our office purchases a tax preparation service which makes the process much easier. Ensure that your child completes their tax return by April 15!

While filing a tax return may sound difficult, there are a number of benefits to doing so other than it’s the law:

• Might get a refund - Some international students will qualify for a refund due to tax treaties and a lack of serious income if they’ve earned income in the US.

• Protects taxation of worldwide income.

• Fulfills visa obligations - All international students must file at least Form 8843 (see below) in order to remain legal under F, J, M & Q visas.
